

The Pakistan Credit Rating Agency (PACRA) offers immense opportunity of value addition particularly to individuals who wish to pursue a career in the financial sector. PACRA offers exciting prospects for such individuals who are highly motivated with the drive and initiative to look for challenges in life. PACRA is not recommended for such individuals whose priority is to work in a large organization with predictable career progression and limited demands on application.

PACRA is currently on the lookout for a person who can work as part of our research division

YOUR ROLE:

Research department is an independent division of PACRA, currently in its developmental stage. The scope of work encompasses covering a wide variety of commercial and economic developments transpiring in the fast changing business environment across the world, with a particular focus on Pakistan. The most critical part is to identify those developments, which have high correlation with the rating business. Ultimately, providing strong in-house support to the rating division.

You will be responsible for organizing and managing a diverse range of research material and developing and maintaining PACRA's internal database. You should be able to execute an internal web page providing an access to all research material in a user-friendly interface. In addition, you must be capable of efficient multi-tasking under pressure and keeping your wits despite tight schedules, not to mention keeping abreast of the current economic and business news as well as corporate developments.

We would like to hear from you if you are an MBIT or BBIT (Hons.) with interest in Accounting/finance or have graduated with background of Business, Finance & IT from a reputed university, fresh or with maximum of 1-year experience.

If you believe that you fit the above profile, please email your detailed curriculum vitae along with the covering letter including a recent photograph, current and expected salary, and contact details at: admin@pacra.com. We expect to hear from you within the month of March.

Note: PACRA is an equal opportunity employer, offers a competitive remuneration package with career advancement linked entirely to the quality and speed of output.

YOUR PROFILE:

- Generate innovative and resourceful ideas related to the research work
- Work independently; yet perform well as a team member
- Aptitude for, and are willing to take, initiatives
- Committed to continuously improving yourself
- Enjoy sharing your knowledge and ideas
- Value the opportunity to refine your communicative skills
- Wish to join the ranks of elite professionals respected and demanded by the market
